ECCC president sees bright future for college, continues plans

By Jimmy Andrews

The Meridian Star

DECATUR — Eddie Smith is known as a planner.

He has a list, among his personal items stacked on his desk at East Central Community College, that he uses as a guide for the college he has called home since 1985.

One by one, items on the list get checked off, but then he adds another and another. It is a constant process.

"Every one of the goals I set when I first got here have been met, but we plan for five years ahead, so I keep the list updated," Smith laughed.

"My biggest goal has to do with recruitment. It is the backbone of everything we do, and everything we do is targeted to our students. Ultimately, recruitment is how a school will be judged, and I think our recruitment effort is second to none."

As ECCC president, Smith is the leader and someone the ECCC Board of Trustees count on to make things work.

So far, enrollment has gone from a few hundred to more than 2,000 since he took the chair.

"We go after the best students because the things we key on the most are student success and image. It can't be just an image we have, but we must have some way to back that image up," Smith said. "We have a large number of students who scored higher than 26 on their ACT."

ECCC students who went on to senior colleges had collective higher grade point averages than any other of the 15 transferring colleges in Mississippi, according to a recent survey conducted.

"You have to give credit to the faculty, but the support of that faculty is essential. They must have the best computer network and teaching tools available," he said.

"If the Board of Trustees and the president don't have a good, healthy relationship, it won't work — period. If it's an antagonistic relationship, there won't be success."

Smith isn't looking for retirement any time soon, so until that day comes, his list of goals for ECCC continues to multiply.

"You can't move too fast, and you can't move ahead of your plans," Smith added. "The most important thing is not to create anything you can't manage, while living within your means."

ECCC has the third lowest per capita tax revenue of all the community colleges in the state of Mississippi.

Each resident in the five-county ECCC tax base contributes $9.02 in taxes to keep ECCC running. Meridian residents pay $21.20 to support MCC, while Hinds County Junior College receives $25.60 through its tax base.

ECCC enrolling record numbers at Decatur campus

By Jimmy Andrews

The Meridian Star

DECATUR — A record 370 students received diplomas from East Central Community College in May, and though located in Newton County, most of its students come from Neshoba County.

"Neshoba County has been very loyal to East Central Community College since 1928," said ECCC President Eddie Smith.

"For over 70 years, the college has received financial support from Neshoba County and has provided its citizens with quality education in the academic, technical, vocational and industrial training fields."

Its record enrollment topped out at 2,052 students registering for fall classes on the Decatur campus and at various satellite locations throughout its five-county district.

Spring semester enrollment is also a record at 1,960 students.

"The enrollment record does not include the 7,000-plus students who took non-credit courses, such as GED classes and those who were enrolled in industrial training classes provided by the college's Skill/Tech One-Stop Career Center," Smith said.

Phil Sutphin, dean of instruction, said the high number of graduates is a sure sign of the progress and commitment being made at ECCC.

Areas of enrollment

County	Number	Percentage
Leake County	342	14.4%
Newton County	518	27.8%
Neshoba County	529	27.9%
Scott County	297	15.7%
Winston County	246	14.2%

The majority of ECCC students are white (65 percent), female (61 percent) and single (70 percent).

"We are doing well and have experienced growth over the last 13 years that Dr. Eddie Smith has been president and that translates into new students and more graduates," Sutphin said.

"During a study conducted this year by the State Board of Education where all the four-year institutions in our area sent back data they had collected on junior college transfers, ECCC students ranked the highest in grade point averages.

Now, everybody knows that about us statewide. That's a help."

Sutphin said what outgoing students say about the school is just as important.

"Word of mouth is important because when they have a great experience here, they tell others," he said.

"Our biggest challenge this past year was space. We were running out of space for both students and faculty."

ECCC recently broke ground on a new student services building. District 3 Congressman Charles W. "Chip" Pickering delivered a $3 million check from the United States Department of Agriculture to the school for the construction of a new women's dormitory — sure signs that enrollment numbers are expected to remain high.

As early as February, the Decatur campus sold out of its 184 available dormitory rooms for women.

There were 240 reservations, in addition to a waiting list.

"We need more room for male dormitory rooms, too," Smith told supervisors in Newton County last year, making a pitch for more funding.

"If we can build the dorm for women, then we can use other space for the men. What we propose is a 40,000-square-foot, multi-story dorm with 150 new beds. That would get us to the capacity in which we could survive for a while. We don't feel we can ask for more than this at this time."

All of the five counties — Neshoba, Newton, Scott, Leake and Winston — pitched in with increased millage rates to help pay for the estimated $3.6 million project.

For the second straight year, licensed practical nursing students who took the state board examination achieved a 100 percent passing rate on first write.

ECCC is now the first community college in the state approved to offer a new course of study in gerontology beginning this year.

The majority of ECCC students are white (65 percent), female (61 percent) and single (70 percent).

ECCC ranks 15th in the amount of total dollars received from county levies. That is 15th out of the 15 community and junior colleges that receive taxpayer dollars.

We are proud of ECCC and its accomplishments!

Keep up the good work

ECCC honors faculty member with building dedication

By Jimmy Andrews

The Meridian Star

DECATUR — Dr. Richard Ethridge, chairman of the division of business administration, social science and education and social sciences instructor, serves as president of the Mississippi Baptist Historical Society, but his greatest honor may be summed up in his name — literally.

Ceremonies officially renaming an East Central Community College classroom building in honor of Ethridge will leave his 37-year legacy permanently ingrained on the Decatur campus.

Ethridge recently retired as an educator and the Board of Trustees named the front classroom building on South Campus in his honor.

Among those who paid tribute to the longtime instructor included Eddie Smith, ECCC president; Phil Sutphin, dean of instruction; retired faculty member Ovid Vickers; and the Rev. Gus Merritt, former pastor of Clarke-Venable Baptist Church in Decatur.

"Following a short program, activities continued on the college's south campus where Richard C. Ethridge Hall was officially dedicated," explained Bubby Johnston, ECCC director of public information.

"The public came out to attend the building convocation and reception."

Ethridge completed his 37th year at ECCC in 1997, where he taught honors and basic social science courses in addition to serving as division chairman.

He has been the recipient of numerous honors throughout his teaching career, the most recent being his selection as the college's Outstanding Humanities Faculty Member for 1997.

The Lauderdale County native was chosen Academic Instructor of the Year in 1988 by the ECCC Alumni Association and was elected Outstanding Teacher in 1964 by a vote of the college's own student body.

In addition to his work at ECCC, Ethridge has taught several graduate level courses at the Meridian branch locations of the University of Southern Mississippi and Mississippi State University.

He has contributed to various scholarly works published by the Mississippi College and University Press and the LSU Press over the years.

He has served as pastor and interim pastor of several Mississippi Baptist congregations.

Ethridge is married to the former Virginia Marble, and they have three daughters.

"It is a great honor to have my name associated with an institution that I love so dearly," Ethridge said.

ECCC only college in Mississippi to offer gerontology course

Tommy Andrews
Meridian Star

CATUR — East Central Community College has been moved to offer the state's first associate degree gerontology program. President Eddie Smith said the new technical program will begin during the 1998-99 term. The college decided to add gerontology, the study of physical, psychological and social aspects of aging, to the curriculum for various reasons. "The older population continues to be the fastest growing age group in the nation," explained John Adcock, ECCC district director of vocational-technical instruction.

"A growing demand has been created for services to the elderly. The practice of gerontology promotes independence and self-reliance in older adults.

"A specialist assists the elderly through referral, advocacy, counseling and case management. Students who complete the four-semester program gain traditional classroom knowledge and practical work experience through supervised internships."

Mary Boulton of Hickory will instruct the course, the first gerontology program offered at a community college in Mississippi. She is formerly a medical social worker for Laird Hospital Home Health in Union, as well as work with the Lauderdale County Juvenile Center.

"I just took a chance on getting the job, had the qualification and am very excited to offered the chance to teach what I have learned about taking care of the elderly over the years," Boulton said.

"The elderly have lived it, and a person can learn so much from them if they just listen. I often write down old sayings they pass on to me, and I have learned more from them than any book could have taught."

Boulton said the key to passing that sensitivity on to her students is allowing them to get hands-on experience.

"They will be able to go into the home as part of their study," Boulton said. "I can teach only so much from a book ... most of it will have to be learned first hand."

Another new course, technical applications, is slated for the Neshoba County-Philadelphia Vo-Tech Center, a division of ECCC.

Technical applications provides high school students with expanded knowledge of the use of technical skills enabling them to solve problems with hands-on experiences related to technical skills.

function has accounted for $6.85. The total includes cash and in-kind contributions, as well as contributions from the college's athletic department through the "Warrior Club," a fundraising group for athletics. In 1998, Warrior Club monies were used to erect a new fence around the softball field where the 1998 State Softball Championship Diamond Warriors played. Private businesses also helped fund new visitors' dressing room facilities for football, baseball and basketball teams.

In other areas, the East Central College received monies from contributions that will be used to build an archway at the main entrance to the campus.

The new structure will feature an electronic marquee announcing campus events.

The college has also applied for a grant from the Mississippi Forestry Commission and is seeking private donations to help beautify the campus with landscaping projects related to science classes.

In just a few short years, the college's contribution has increased ECCC's annual fund from about $10,000 to about $100,000.

"We are extremely grateful to our donors and friends for their generous response to our fund-raising efforts so far," said Eddie Smith, ECCC president.

"We want to continue to offer a quality community college education that is affordable to everyone who wants it, regardless. To help with

During the 1998 fiscal year, donors contributed more than $106,000 to endowed scholarships, which require a minimum investment of $10,000 on which earnings are used to create permanent scholarships.

The Development and Alumni Relations Office will host a Homecoming on Oct. 10 with the theme "Celebrate in '98."

The college will host reunion groups for all classes ending in "8" during that time.

USDA grants ECCC final, largest grant for dorm

By Jimmy Andrews

The Meridian Star

DECATUR — East Central Community College has received a $3 million loan from the United States Department of Agriculture, Rural Development Division for construction of a dormitory for women. The loan is the largest and final such loan to be awarded this year.

"I went back and looked at the record books, and the loan we are handing out to ECCC is by far the largest," explained USDA State Director George Irvin.

"The competition for this money is very stiff, and you have to spread this money out around the country. It is not an accident that this project came here to ECCC. I just don't think we would have gotten this amount of money if not for Congressman Chip Pickering (District 3 representative).

"We actually didn't have enough money ... we ran out and needed an additional $400,000 to make this loan work. We were able to go back to Washington and get the additional money. As a matter of fact, in handing out this loan, we don't have any more money available for the rest of the year."

The USDA, Rural Development, issues loans to small, rural communi-

"The $3 million that we are talking about to construct a women's dormitory is more than brick and mortar. This will allow young women and people to come to a community where they can have a chance to get an education ... and have their dream in life."

Chip Pickering.
3rd District congressman ties to help improve public facilities.

"This is a significant event in the history of the college," said ECCC President Eddie Smith. "For several years we've had a critical need for additional dormitory space, especially for our female students.

"When you receive a loan, such as this, you have to have a way to pay it back. The supervisors in our five district counties came to our aid and passed special millage assessments for a 25-year period to repay the loan for the construction of this dormitory. We certainly appreciate them for making sure we received this loan with a chance to repay it."

Pickering told observers that building a dorm has a deeper meaning.

"The $3 million that we are talking about to construct a women's dormitory is more than brick and mortar," Pickering said. "This will allow young women and people to come to a community where they can have a chance to get an education to provide them the economic opportunity to succeed and have their dream in life. This money is for the experience and relationships that will form here which give the true meaning to life."

The estimated cost of construction for the 150-bed facility is $3.6 million. In 1997, ECCC had more than 100 female students on a waiting list. The project is expected to be completed in 1999. A men's dorm is on the strategic planning list for the future.

"We don't want anyone to think that there isn't enough room for additional students, because there is," Smith said. "As we move into new facilities, we open other facilities on campus to house new and incoming students. We've got room for anybody who wants to come to East Central."

Student services building coming

DECATUR — One of the biggest projects making its way off of the drawing board and on to the ECCC Decatur campus is the construction of a new student services building.

The 14,000-square-foot building will house admissions and student records, a bookstore, security, administration offices and a clinic.

At a cost of $2,232,830, the funding will come from state bond sources with no additional indebtedness to the college or the five county funding district. The project is expected to be completed in about 10 months.

"This is very important to East Central Community College because it will give students better access to services," said ECCC President Eddie Smith. "This is something we've needed for a very long time."

The Student Services Building will become the new focal point.

"It will be the hub of activity here on campus," Smith said. "More students use the student services building than most any other facility on a college campus. So we've been needing one and look forward to its completion next year."

East Central's Theta Xi named 'Five Star' chapter, receives awards

For the sixth consecutive year, East Central Community College's Theta Xi chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, the international honor society for the two-year college, has been recognized as a Five Star chapter.

This level designates that the chapter has developed a comprehensive program designed to implement specific activities involving scholarship, leadership, service and fellowship, the four hallmarks of Phi Theta Kappa.

Theta Xi was recognized at the annual Mississippi-Louisiana Regional Awards ceremony held Feb. 8 in Meridian. Activities were held at the Meridian campus of Mississippi State University and the Holiday Inn Express. Meridian Community College's Nu Upsilon Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa hosted the event.

ECCC's Theta Xi Chapter was also awarded the Willie Mae Hamill Scrapbook Award for the most outstanding scrapbook and received a Brotherhood Award for work and activities with other chapters. The "Theta Xi Review," the chapter's monthly newsletter, was selected as one of the region's most outstanding.

A Service Hallmark winner, Theta Xi was honored for its participation in various college, community, regional and international service projects. The chapter participated in an AIDS awareness campaign, the Adopt-A-Highway program and numerous other campus activities.

The chapter received second place honors in the Scholarship Hallmark competition for activities designed to promote scholarship in elementary, secondary and post-secondary educational settings.

Theta Xi was also elected president of the MS/LA region. The chapter designated Phillip Smith of Philadelphia to serve in this capacity.

Also honored was Theta Xi advisor Dr. Shelby Harris, who recently retired as an advisory committee member. The advisory committee, which is composed of five chapter advisors, assists the regional coordinator in planning activities.

The ceremony's most prestigious award went to Dr. Milton Matthews of Jackson who was chosen as Phi Theta Kappa's Most Distinguished Alumnus. Matthews, a Union native and alumnus of ECCC's Theta Xi chapter, was nominated for the significant contributions he has made to Phi Theta Kappa on the local, regional and international levels.

At an induction ceremony on the Decatur campus, Matthews was recognized as an Outstanding Alumnus of ECCC's Theta Xi chapter for his service on the local level.

"Anytime we have asked Dr. Matthews for his help on any project, he was willing to help," said Harris.

Harris and Ann Burkes, Theta Xi advisors, accompanied nine members to the Phi Theta Kappa International held April 2-5 at the Opryland Hotel and Convention Center in Nashville, Tenn. Theta Xi was ranked 12th in the nation among all chapters participating in the Hallmark Competition and was the highest ranking chapter in Mississippi, Tennessee and Louisiana.

Theta Xi also received one of 10 Eichling Yearbook awards, one of 25 distinguished chapter awards and one of 10 Fellowship Hallmark awards (they ranked second overall in this hallmark).

The chapter also received two individual awards. Amy Spears of Carthage received one of 25 Beirkoe Distinguished Member awards and Brian Shaw of Forest received one of 25 Distinguished Chapter President awards.

More than 1,400 Phi Theta Kappa chapters are chartered in the United States, Canada, Germany and Japan.

Ms. Sanna Heckman, a beautiful, dedicated and very determined lady receives her Certificate of Achievement Award for completing the full weight loss program, reaching her goal weight, stabilizing...and maintenance for 1 year. Glenda Seale, manager of Hi-Energy presents the award.

Congatulations, Ms. Sanna! We appreciate you and love you!

"One day I came to the realization that I was very much overweight with a cholestoral count that had climbed to dangerous levels," said Sanna Heckman. "I felt dull and lethargic, and it was impossible to find attractive clothes in my size. When the day came I had a real struggle to climb out of the bathtub. I knew I had to do something! That same day I saw Hi-Energy's ad in the Democrat and I enrolled in the program. It was a lucky day for me! The counselors take a truly personal interest in their patients. They are both sympathetic and understanding and do not hesitate to devote whatever time is necessary to keep one on the right track. July of '98 finds me 65 pounds plus lighter, and I'm full of vim and vigor! My cholesterol count is now in a acceptable range and last...but not least... I'm wearing the same size I wore fifty years ago ~ a 12! I feel good about myself! Thanks, Hi Energy!"

ECCC freshman Wendy Mapp named to All-American team

For the second year, a member of the East Central Community College softball team has been named an All-American, and this year's recipient is the only freshman selected to the prestigious squad.

Wendy Mapp, a standout short-stop for Mike Anderson's Lady Warriors during the 1998 campaign, was one of only 10 student-athletes in the nation to earn All-American honors.

She was earlier named to the All-Region 23 and All-State squads.

Mapp received the second highest number of votes on the All-Region team, according to Anderson, who had nothing but praise for the Newton County High School product.

"Wendy is a very instinctive and business-like player. She is fun to coach, and I'm very pleased to have her for another year."

Prior to the season-opening soft-also a key member of the Lady Warrior basketball team. In fact, she started 29 games as a member of Coach Sammy Pace's 19-9 squad and was later named to the All-Region 23 Tournament Team.

It didn't take long for Mapp to get "in the swing" of softball, as she quickly excelled at the plate and on the field. Mapp went to bat 145 times and had 75 hits, including six home runs, one triple and 10 doubles.

She scored 46 runs and collected 54 RBIs. She completed season action with a .518 average. Her fielding average was .865.

Mapp and her teammates earned the most season victories (32) by an ECCC softball team. The Lady Warriors placed third in region and state tournament competition and finished play with 25 defeats.

Mapp joins Olivia McDaniel of Philadelphia as the only ECCC softball players to be named All-Americans.

McDaniel, a product of Neshoba Central High School, was also the top vote-getter for All-Region and All-State recognition.

She was a member of the 1997 squad, which finished third in state

ECCC grads receive PTK scholarships

DECATUR — Amy Gomillion admits having made a "C" once, but mostly the East Central Community College senior has earned A's and B's.

Gomillion has received numerous awards, including most recently, a check for $5,000 as the recipient of the Guistwhite Scholarship presented by the Phi Theta Kappa International Honor Society.

She took home another $1,000 for being named to the 1998 Mississippi All-State Academic Team.

Gomillion, Shaw

focused when there are other activities going on on campus. You just have to be a good time manager, and I really don't get much (time) out of the class-

"I have a 4.0 grade point average," Gomillion confesses. "I don't know what I'd do if I didn't get good grades."

Only 10 students are chosen to represent the state team, and the Walnut Grove native had to complete a written essay, submit letters of recommendations and demonstrate academic achievement and leadership skills.

"I've always been a go-getter," Gomillion said. "I enjoy being in a leadership role ... I've had great family support."

Amy's mother has been a kindergarten teacher for more than 25 years. She even taught her own daughter in the second grade.

"I called her 'Mrs. Gomillion' just like all the other kids," she said.

"Of course, she always knew if I had done my homework, but my study habits haven't always come easy. It's very hard to stay room. I tend to learn more stuck in my room."

She left ECCC this summer and headed off to the University of Mississippi Pharmacy School in Oxford.

"I don't like organic chemistry at all, but becoming a pharmacist is what I want to do. A doctor requires too much time away from family, so I thought being a pharmacist would be perfect."

So far, Gomillion has been perfect academically. Her "C" came back in high school, but it was only on a test. She has never seen anything below a "B" on a report card.

Fellow ECCC classmate Brian Shaw of Forest received honorable mention on the state academic team. He received a $1,000 scholarship for being named a finalist in the Guistwhite Scholarship program.

Shaw maintained a 3.88 grade point average.
